

Preservative Treatments and Use Classes

The illustration below highlights the Use Classes (as defined in BS EN 335-1) which relate to various end uses of preservative treated timber. Simply click on the relevant Arch product logo below to find out more about each specific treatment.

RELEVANT ARCH PRESERVATIVE TREATMENTS FOR EACH USE CLASS

USE CLASSES
1, 2, 3.1, 3.2 & 4

Ideal for general construction, fencing, garden and leisure timbers and industrial applications such as transmission poles, cooling tower timbers and retaining walls.

PALE GREEN COLOURATION

USE CLASSES
3.2 & 4

Ideal for decking components, cladding, garden and playground timbers.

PALE GREEN COLOURATION
WITH BUILT-IN WATER
REPELLENT

USE CLASSES
3.2 & 4

Ideal for rough sawn fencing and landscaping timbers.

BROWN COLOURATION

USE CLASS
3.2

Ideal for cladding, deck boards and garden buildings.

NATURAL APPEARANCE

USE CLASSES
1, 2 & 3.1

Ideal for timber frame components, roofing and building timbers and external joinery.

NATURAL APPEARANCE

As well as the use of treated timber in general building and landscaping applications there is a range of more industrial end uses where preservative treated timber can be used. Simply click on the photo below to find out more...

Highway Fencing

Transmission Poles

Farm Buildings

Cooling Tower Timbers

Packaging Timbers to Australia